Crydom's Series CMR solid-state relays provide superior heat control in a low cost, compact package. These relays feature a built-in heat sink and are DIN rail or panel mountable. State-of-the-art surface mount technology used to manufacture these relays delivers proven reliability in the most demanding applications.

The oversized output chips, together with the Crydom optimized thermal management system, allows a narrower band of temperature excursions, resulting in a significant reduction in thermal fatigue, thereby extending relay life.
